Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly; had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. PURCHASED BY

Oct 4 LAWRASON & FOWLE.

Mr. Editor,

KNOWING that there is a number of the most worthless of society, who make it a business to spread evil reports respecting the solvency of banks in the different parts of the United States, for the purpose of depreciating and purchasing their paper. I feel it is my duty to give a list of the Banks of the District of Columbia, that it may be made known to all persons in every part of the Union, that the said Banks do pay specie for their notes, on demand, and that they are justly entitled to the highest credit and standing, and that they are opposed to a suspension of specie payments, and will be the last in the country that will agree to such a measure. This communication is made to prevent imposition, and to inform all persons who may have the paper of those banks, in any part of the Union, that they may hold it as so much specie. Persons emigrating and travelling north, south or west, would do well by taking the notes of those banks, as they will always find them equal to specie, and often to command a premium of 5 to 10 per cent, for remittances to Baltimore, Philadelphia & New-York. To my numerous acquaintances (trading men,) and the community, I pledge myself for the foregoing.

The following are the banks of this district that pay specie for their notes on demand, viz:

The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown,
Central Bank of Georgetown & Washington,
Union Bank of Georgetown.
Bank of Columbia,
Bank of the Metropolis,
Patriotic Bank of Washington,
Bank of Washington,
Bank of Alexandria,
Union Bank of Alexandria,
Farmers' Bank of Alexandria,
Bank of Potomac,
Branch Bank of the United States at Washington.

I hold myself responsible for the foregoing declaration to the public. Done at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, this 26th day of May 1819.

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1819.

It is with reluctance we this day record an instance of almost unexampled savage brutality, blended with no inconsiderable share of consummate villainy, which, we would endeavor to persuade ourselves, has but few parallels in any age or nation.—There is something so revolting—so flagrantly outrageous in it, that we are ready to enquire if there be not

——Some chosen curse,
Some hidden thunders in the stores of Heaven,
Red with uncommon fury, to blast such wretches?

There will be some difficulty in distinguishing the different grades of turpitude exhibited on this occasion, between the wreckers, who were not Americans, and the privateersmen, who, it is believed, were. There is something so despicable in pilfering from those in distress and expecting every moment shipwreck, that we have no adequate or suitable language to convey or express our indignant feelings at its perpetration. It adds one to the many instances already notorious, of what heterogeneous materials privateersmen are composed, and of what damning baseness and diabolical deeds they are capable. The feelings of government on this subject are inert, torpid and relaxed. Again and again has the tocsin been sounded to no purpose. Pillage and murder has become so familiar, that they now excite no other feeling than that of indifference.

Can such things be,
And o'ercome us like a summer's cloud
Without our special wonder?

[Baltimore Telegraph.

From the National Advocate of Saturday.

By the arrival last evening of the brig Rising Sun, Capt. Folger, in 14 days from Havana, the following account of disasters was transmitted from a passenger.

At about three quarters past two, on the morning of the 29th May, 1819, the brig Rising Sun going at the rate of 8½ knots, we were appalled by the cry of breakers—unsuccessful attempts were made to stay, but in vain—the vessel struck on the Florida reef, and thumped over it until in about 6½ feet water; after taking in all sail, preparing and provisioning our boats, arranging their crews, and expecting every instant to see the brig go to pieces, deemed it advisable to remain quiet until day-light: its tardy welcome beams at length appeared, when we discovered four sail, two to the windward and two others to the leeward—those to the windward reached us about half past five o'clock, and proved to be wrecking vessels belonging to Nassau, New Providence, the Success, capt. Wm. Johnson, and the William & John, capt. Wm. Turner—upon boarding us, and representing our situation in the darkest light, capt. Johnson, one of the wreckers, was asked what he would require to get the vessel off—he at first asked half of the cargo, then less, and at last agreed to aid in lighting and getting her off, on condition he should be paid for his services one third of the cargo he should take out; this bargain was made between the owner, Mr. Western, and captain Johnson, in the presence of the principal part of the crew and passengers; by the time the lumber was moved from off the cargo, and the brig's long boat loaded with sugar, the leeward vessels had come to; the wreckers feared they were privateers, and went on board their vessels, taking with them the crews and the sugar, leaving us to our fate; we lay thumping for about one hour longer, during which time several boats passed between the privateers and the wreckers; we were shortly afterwards boarded by a boat containing six or seven ruffian looking wretches; on their coming along side, they were asked who they were, of what country, and what they wanted, to none of which they would give an answer, but insisted on boarding us; upon coming on board, a person calling himself captain, inquired for the Spanish passengers; he then turned to rifle their trunks, while his crew were employed robbing and plundering every portable article they could see; they then put their booty into their boat, which consisted of one box sugar, sundry articles belonging to the brig, fruit and provisions, the passengers' trunks, clothes and papers, a quantity o dollars, a gold watch, and numerous little articles, and then very graciously left us. Had our misfortune ended here, we had still been well off—but the fury of other pirates assailed us.

During the time the wrecker's boats were passing to the pirates, finding the vessel thump very hard, with our own crew we carried out an anchor astern, and turned too to heave off; we also stove half of our molasses, and pumped it out. Upon seeing our exertions likely to succeed, these harpies of wreckers returned to us, and continued conveying away sugar. The brig being still tight, it stimulated us to persevere, and in about an hour she was again afloat. She was then taken within the reef, where we came to anchor at half past 4 o'clock, in about 3 fathoms water. Nothing but the astonishing strength of this fine little brig saved her and her cargo; the oldest sailors aboard were astonished, and the wreckers sadly disappointed—the sailors swearing she was made of cast iron. The principal harm we sustained was in unshipping our rudder. We lay there that afternoon and night, and the succeding day got the vessel ready for sea. The next morning, the 31st, being ready to depart, we required of the wreckers the proportion of the cargo they had saved, which, under the agreement they had made, did not belong to them—but the paltry villains, basely taking advantage of our unarmed and dependent situation, and, in violation of every feeling which should inhabit the heart of a christian, and to the miserable disgrace of the proud British flag, demanded all the cargo they had taken out. Remonstrances, threats and persuasions were in vain: they persisted in their nefarious intent, and bore away with their spoil. We had hardly enough left in the brig to ballast her; but trusting that He who protected midst the horrors of the morning of the 29th, would not now lose sight of us, we once more bent our course for New-York.

Charleston, June 9.

LATEST FROM THE HAVANA.

To our attentive correspondent at the Havana, we are indebted for the following letter and prices current, received via Savannah. It will be seen that he makes no mention of the reported cession of the Island of Cuba, and it is therefore presumable that there was no reasonable foundation in the report.

Havana, May 22.

"A considerable improvement has taken place with provisions—rice, beef, codfish and corn are in demand. Annexed you have a general statement of our market. I shall write you particularly per schr New-Orleans, capt. Richards, in a day or two. The brig Catharine, capt. Wellsman, of your port, arrived here a few days since from Gibraltar, 44 days. FROM KINGSTON, (JAM.) VIA BERMUDA.

From our correspondent at Kingston, we received this morning, by the sloop Friendship, capt. Bridges, Jamaica papers to the 1st May inclusive, from which we have made a few extracts:—

Kingston, (Jam.) April 26.

His Majesty's brig Shearwater, of 10 guns, capt. Cox, sailed from Port-Royal yesterday morning, for Cape Francois.

His Majesty's brig Confiance, of 18 guns, capt. Montgomery, came to anchor at Port Royal yesterday morning. The Confiance called off St. Jago de Cuba on the 4th inst. touched at Aux Cayes on the 6th, left it on the 7th, arrived at Carthagena on the 10th, sailed on the 12th, and anchored at Santa Martha on the 15th, from whence she proceeded on the 23d.

An express had arrived at Carthagena about the 1st of this month, from Gen. Hoare at Panama, requesting the governor would send over 500 men to protect Puerto Bello and Chagres, against any attempt of the Independents, but which was not complied with, in consequence it is said, of the troops being in a very mutinous state not having received any pay for the last 15 months.

Three hundred men arrived at Santa Martha on the 13th inst. from Carthagena, in order to assist in garrisoning that place.

Accounts had been received at Santa Fee from Lima, dated the 7th ult. which represented that place as being in a tranquil and undisturbed state, and in quiet possession of the royalists. Several valuable captures had been made in the south seas, by the Independent cruizers.

April 28.

His most christian majesty's frigate Golo, (armed en flute) capt. Mackau, came to anchor at Port Royal yesterday. She had been on the East India station, and left the isle of Bourbon about three months ago, touched at Martinique early this month, and latterly called at Gaudaloupe, which Island she left on the 16th inst.

On Sunday last about 11 o'clock A. M. it blew a severe gale of wind, when the Fan was struck by a tremendous sea which threw her on her beam ends. She, however, fortunately righted immediately without suffering any damage, but her boat was stove into peices by the violence of the sea.

Off the Turtling Keys the Asbestos, (noticed yesterday to have arrived) spoke a vessel from 'Old Providence, from which she derived information, that the notorious pirate Mitchell had been cruizing off the Corn Islands, and that com. Aury on learning it, sent different vessels in pursuit of him, when they succeeded in taking his vessel, officers and crew, but he himself found means to escape.

No account of the capture of Porto Bello had reached Santha Martha, at the time of the Fan Fan's departure.

May 1.

"Recruiting for the Independent service still goes on, it seems, with much vigor in this city. Vessels appear off Port Royal and receive from the shores recruits, by boat loads. Twelve canoes loaded, which missed some vessel, these people intended to embark on board of, were landed on the palisadoes on Thursday; they consisted of about 60 or 70 in number, and created some alarm in Port Royal, before it was ascertained who they were.—Several came wandering into the town during the evening in the most pitiable condition, begging for something to satisfy their hunger! which is but a prelude to their future suffering. They have been misled, if they suppose the treasures of Mexico and Peru will be at their disposal. Whatever injury they may inflict on the mercantile interest of Kingson, not one we predict who has embarked in the cause will be benefited by it. They will neither receive honor nor emolument.—Most of she Europeans will be assailed by disease, and ere long their carcasses will be the prey of vultures, and their bones will bleach on the plains and shores of South America, as a momento of their folly and indiscretion. Those able to withstand the climate will become wanderers, who in the end, will be glad to fly to any country which can afford them bread."

His grace the governor has been pleased to issue his proclamation, rescinding the one previously published, prohibiting the exportation of provisions.

YELLOW STONE EXPEDITION.

Letter from Col. James Johnson, of the Yellow Stone expedition, to the Editor of the Frankfort Argus.

Steam-Boat Expedition,
Off Shippingport, 1st May, 1819.

DEAR SIR —We have at length succeeded in accomplishing all the repairs to the Steam-Boats for the Missouri and Mississippi. The machinery has been tried and found complete.—There is nothing superior on the Western waters.

We have four Boats, (one new,) heavy loaded with provisions, and will be off by sun-rise in the morning for Head Quarters, where we shall very shortly arrive. We are some later in starting than I wished, but it would have been folly to have set out without full preparation. Every arrangement is now made; we have nothing to do but to execute, which will, I trust, be done promptly.

The 6th Regiment which is to ascend the Missouri with the rifle regiment is yet in our rear. The government Steam Boat built at Pittsburgh, to be commanded by Major Long, is also in the same situation; but hourly expected. I expect they are between this and Pittsburgh. We therefore are fast enough, although it has been my great wish to be in motion and arrive at Head Quarters as early as possible.

We have a large quantity of cannon and ammunition on board, sufficient to show that our government is in earnest in this business.

It is pleasing to find that the community takes such interest for this enterprize. I have seen nothing which interests the people more. They know how to appreciate its value, and every day I receive the good wishes of our most valuable citizens for success. I have not slept more that about 3 or 4 hours within the 24 since I have been at this place, and all hours the industry and exertions of our mechanics are seen. What would have taken until the first of June by ordinary exertion, we have now accomplished and much to our mind. You shall hear from me again and again while I am absent.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

MR. SNOWDEN: Certain magistrates of the county of Prince William, for the purpose of giving themselves a wider fame for upwrightness in decision, and purity in the discharge of their judicial functions, having through the medium of your paper caused a record to be published, of a rule under which they were laid—calling upon them to shew cause why informations should not be filed against them for oppression in the administration of justice; and having likewise published the opinion of the court, without the evidence upon which that opinion was founded—It seems to me every way proper, that I should lay before the community the motives and the evidence which induced the public enquiry into the conduct of the aforesaid justices.

An author of great distinction and ability has said, that "opinion is the Queen of the world." The character of individuals in the exercise of public authority is interesting to the community; and every citizen ought to feel the highest solicitude to stand fair before a tribunal in all nations of great power and importance; but among this people perfectly omnipotent as well as indubitably sovereign. If, therefore, they are not satisfied with an acquital by his honor, the judge of the superior court for the county of Prince William, but think it necessary for the establishment of their good conduct in relation to the impartial administration of justice, to make an appeal to the dernier resort of American litigants, public opinion; it will be conceded, I think, that there can be nothing improper in my attempting to demonstrate to the public, that the evidence upon which the prosecution aforesaid was instituted, was not such as should not "create the least doubt" of the oppressive conduct of the accused. I fancy, it will not be denied either, that the publication of the judges opinion subjects it to every species of fair and candid criticism. Permit me then, gentlemen, to give you the evidence as I understood it—and this for the purpose, not of shewing that the conclusions to which the mind of the judge of the superior court arrived, do not comport with truth; nor for the purpose of fixing upon the justices aforesaid, the crime of felony; but that it may appear to the public (for whose opinion I have the highest veneration, as every good citizen ought to have,) that the prosecution was not causelessly set on foot; and that it is very possible for different persons to come to different results upon an examination of the same testimony; or even for nations to change their opinion with regard to the guilt or innocence of the same action and the same man.

If this were not so, could we believe that the same community who drove Cicero from Rome with disgrace and ignominy, could recall him with honor and serve him with fidelity; or, that the same judges who condemned Socrates to death, would unite in decreeing the highest honors to his memory. The county court of Prince William at its June session, in 1818, tried a cause instituted by Cornelius Kinch loe against Jesse Scott, for what may be termed a breach of trust in the settlement of some long standing accounts; the pleas were the general issue and statute of limitations. The jury after a short retirement, returned into court and delivered their verdict in the following words: "We, of the jury, find for the plaintiff and assess his damages to 12 dolls. 21 cts. with interest from the 22d Feb. 180 , till paid, (Signed) A. C. Hayes." The council for the plaintiff knowing the informality of the verdict thus delivered; first because the issues were not found, and because the whole sum should have been given in damages, requested of the jury permission to alter the form of their verdict, which was immediately granted, as is the practice so far as I know any thing about it universally; and the verdict made to read in the following words; "We, of the jury, find the issues for the plaintiff, and assess his damages to the sum of 19 dolls. and 79 cents." This verdict was read to the jury while they were all in the box, and delivered to the foreman, by whom it was put into the hands of the clerk. An interleniation of the first verdict was attempted at first, but was found to be impracticable from the closeness with which it was written. The whole was immediately struck out, and the last verdict written directly under the other. The county court without any inquiry at all about what the jury had done, or waiting for such inquiry, discharged the jury; and although the first verdict with the consent and direction of the jury, was entirely obliterated, ordered it to be recorded, and a nonsuit to be entered.

That this is a true statement of the case, I think, will distinctly appear by the following certificate, taken and signed by all the jurors immediately after the transaction, when all the circumstances were fresh in their minds: "We, the jurors, empannelled in the case of Kinchloe vs. Scott, in assumpsit, tried on the fourth day of Prince William county court, at its June session, in the year 1818, do certify, that on that occasion we formed and returned a verdict in the following words: "we of the jury find for the plaintiff and assess his damages to 12 dols. 21 cents, with interest from the 22d February, 180 , till paid.

(Signed) A. C. HAYES."

"And we further certify that upon request of the counsel for the plaintiff, we gave him permission to alter form, not touching substance; that he went to the bar for the purpose of making the alteration which he read to us to the following effect: "We of the jury find the issues for the plaintiff and assess his damages to the sum of nineteen dollars and seventy-nine cents." We further certify, that the last verdict on this paper and certificate is what we intended, and what we believed we had done."

"(Signed) Geo. Bozwell, Spencer Bird, Geo. F. Huber Wm. Merchant, Joseph R. Gilbert, Thompson Simpson, Foushee Tebbs, John Carter, Jas. W. McDaniel, Wm. Cocke, Benj. Plummer, A. C. Hayes. June 5th, 1818."

I own that this paper was not before the judge of the superior court in the shape of evidence—and ought not to be received as evidence in a court of law. But is nothing true that cannot be proved in a court of justice? Five or 6 of the jurors were examined, and, if I mistake not, their evidence was not materially variant from the certificate they made immediately after the transaction. The whole of the jury would have been examined, if they could have been got to the court. It seems to me that the court did do wrong in rejecting the last verdict and entering up that which had been obliterated, after the jury had retired or been discharged; Because, if as the judge believes, the court did not know that an alteration had been made in the verdict with the consent and approbation of the jury, (in which belief I cannot concur with him notwithstanding his reasoning) they ought to have awarded a new jury, for they never could have doubted whatever else they might have known that the obliteration of the verdict they first heard was made with the express assent of the jury. If then, they could not but believe that the jury had obliterated what they had heard read as their verdict (for it is immaterial, I suppose, whether they did it themselves or ordered it to be done by another) how could they innocently record that as the verdict of the jury which they knew had been destroyed and erased by it.

It seemed to me then, if they were not willing to take the verdict of the jury as altered, that they manifested an improper disposition, in not affording the parties a new opportunity of knowing certainly what a jury would do in their case. The statement of the evidence I have here given does not materially differ from the analysis made of it by his honor, the judge; though I confess I did, and still see the testimony with very different eyes. His honor, however, says, "It is certain that as speedily as the correction could be made the amended verdict was read by the counsel to the jury and assented to by them, and that this verdict was substantially, if not in terms, the same with that written by the plaintiff's counsel." His honor further says, "that the amended verdict was not read to the jury by the clerk as is usual and proper in all such cases." And seems through the whole of the paragraph in which the quotation is contained, to maintain the notion that the court are not to act upon or to know what the jury have said in regard to their verdict, except what they receive through their organ, the clerk. It is in this that I have the unhappiness to differ with his honor—and my believing that it was wholly immaterial whether the clerk read the verdict to the court or no'—and that they were bound, to record what the jury had delivered were my principal reasons for commencing an enquiry into the legality of their conduct.

His honor says, it ought to be presumed, although the jury-box is immediately under the bench, and the bar very near, that the court did not hear the last or amended verdict read—'that even if they did hear the amended verdict read by the counsel to the jury, they were not bound to have regarded it, or to have been guided in their decision by what was not addressed to them, but merely overheard pending the discussion and consideration of a point regularly made to them.' This idea, I cannot think either comports with law or reason. It is the duty of every tribunal administering any portion of justice, not to suppress truth by an adherence to mere form, but to do right, when it is certainly known, in despite of forms. Forms are followed only because in the generallity of instances by not departing from them, right more surely appears.

But how does it appear that the reading of the verdict was not intended for, and did not meet the ear of the court? Whatever is said aloud by a member of the bar is always intended for the court or jury—and the court are to see that nothing improper is said to the jury. Can it be believed, if the court did hear and know that the verdict was altered, that they acted properly in discharging the jury before they distinctly ascertained which of the verdicts was really that of the jury? or can it be believed that what was read aloud by the bar, immediately after the rendition of a verdict, that every one knew was informal, and upon which a motion was made for a nonsuit, could escape the attention of the court, even if testimony were entirely silent on this point? If there was no impropriety in the conduct of the court—"not the least doubt" of their perfect innocence—why such precipitation in discharging the jury? Why did they not seal the bill of exceptions, in which all they had done and refused to do, was fairly and distinctly stated? I think it will not be denied that a court is always bound to seal a bill of exceptions, when respectfully offered,—[illegible] is not to judge of the utility of the bill; because if that were the law, no appeal, in that way, could ever be taken from a judgment. I confess I did never know that it was necessary for the clerk to read to the court what the jury had delivered or dured; but I thought it was the duty of the court to compel, if necessary, their clerk to record what the jury had said. In 4 Bla. p. 376, it is laid down, that "the only effectual and legal verdict is the public verdict, in which the jury openly declare to have found the issue for the plaintiff or for the defendant; and if for the plaintiff they assess the damages also sustained by the plaintiff in consequence of the injury on which the action is brought."—The clerk certainly in the early periods of the commonlaw as the pleadings were ore tenus could have had no agency in informing the court of what the jury had done by way of verdict.

I do not see the injurious consequences which would flow from permitting the jury, or any one else for them, in their presence, in all cases as in criminal, to address themselves immediately to the court.

I have thus submitted my view of this case to you—that it may not be believed, from silence on my part, that there was not the least foundation for a pro-secution—that it may not be believed (or at least that the public may have a fair opportunity of judging) that I have done that for which there was no adequate motive.—And this reasoning I hope will not be objected to, as his honor has relied upon the inadequacy of the motive to show the innocence of the magistrate. I believed I was doing a duty which I owed to my country and my client in bringing the transaction before the proper tribunal. I cheerfully submitted to its decision. The judge of the superior court, I suppose, did his duty—nor can I think this statement will be thought improper or offensive by him, when it is considered that silence on my part might be construed into an acknowledgment of the charge—that this was a prosecution instituted for no public purpose; but with a design of injuring the character of honesty and impartiality, and of distressing without cause, those who are entitled to the praise of moderation and purity

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE,
Fairfax Court-House. Va.
